ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

- 1 Barrow, John. AN ACCOUNT OF TRAVELS INTO THE INTERIOR OF SOUTHERN AFRICA, IN THE YEARS 1797 AND 1798: including cursory observations on the geology and geography of the southern part of that continent; the natural history of such objects as occurred in the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms; and sketches of the physical and moral characters of the various tribes of inhabitants surrounding the settlement of the Cape of Good Hope... London: T. Cadell Jun. & W. Davies, 1801-1804.
2 vols. (viii, 419 p.; xi, 452 p.): folding frontis. (vol. 2), maps (1 col. folding map as frontis. (vol. 1, with small tears), 6 folding & 2 col. folding (vol. 2)). 4to. Full contemporary calf, scarred & rubbed. Staining to top page edges (vol.1). Spotting throughout, but interfering with text. Book plates laid down on front endpapers.

Sir John Barrow (1764-1848) was of humble birth, but through his own ability was a titled confidant of the King of England by the time of his death. In 1792 he was selected by Lord McCartney to travel with him to China as his Comptroller of the Household. When McCartney was appointed Governor at the Cape in 1797, Barrow joined him as his private secretary. It was at the Cape that Barrow married Anne Truter in 1799 and might have stayed on but for the Treaty of Amiens which saw them forced to return to England. The rest of his working life was spent at the Admiralty, where he achieved recognition both for his knowledge and the skillful manner in which he marshalled English resources as the Empire expanded. During his stay at the Cape, Barrow undertook three journeys which amounted to a full twelve months away from Cape Town. This allowed him to see a substantial amount of the Colony. The first journey was to the Eastern Cape and he visited Gaika in the vicinity of King William's Town before returning home via a circuitous route. His second journey was westwards and he went as far north as the spring on the farm Doornkraal on the Kamiesberg. His third journey was towards Algoa Bay and Cookhouse as part of a military expedition. See Mendelssohn, vol. 1, p. 87-88.

- 2 Bowler, Thomas. SOUTH AFRICAN SKETCHES: a series of ten of the most interesting views at the Cape of Good Hope. London: Ackermann & Co.; Cape Town: A.S. Robertson, 31 October 1854. Lithographers: Day and Son, London. 4 p., [10] leaves of plates, unbound. Stiff paper wraps & linen spine: 10 double-tinted lithographs, 36,5 x 2,5 cm. Contained in a red cloth-covered box with gilding. Rear corners frayed. Prints are clean and bright and in unusually good condition. Contents: 1. Title page vignette: Boor's Waggon. 2. Table Bay from Blue Berg. 3. Royal Observatory, Looking westward. 4. Table Bay, from Robben Island. 5. From Wynberg Hill, False Bay in the distance. 6. Botanical Gardens, Cape Town. 7. Great Constantia, the Property of J.P. Cloete, Esq. 8. Admiralty House- Entrance to Simon's Town. 9. Castle, Cape Town, from the S.E. angle of the Parade. 10. Kalk Bay, Evening.

Bowler arrived at the Cape in January 1834 and lived the rest of his life in and around Cape Town, making his living as an artist and art teacher. He died in 1869 whilst on a visit to England. It was during one of his few trips to England in 1854 that Bowler oversaw the production of these prints, which were published under the patronage of Queen Victoria. "Because of the desirability of individual prints, the albums are seldom found intact, being usually broken up for framing. These prints are much sought after..." F.R. Bradlow. THOMAS BOWLER (1967), p. 267-271. See also SABIB vol. 1, p. 266: 4 copies.

- 3 Campbell, John. TRAVELS IN SOUTH AFRICA: undertaken at the request of the London Missionary Society: being a narrative of a second journey in the interior of that country. London: Francis Westley, for the Society, 1822. 2 vols. (xii, 322 p., [9] leaves of plates (1 folding); 384 p., [3] leaves of plates): col. ill., col. frontispieces, ports. (1 as frontis. in vol. 2), col. folding map with a tear along a foldline. Full calf with gilding & marbled endpapers. Scarred & rubbed. Some offsetting from plates as normally seen. R 12 500

Campbell began his second visit in 1819. He travelled inland twice, only returning to England in 1821. These journeys saw him penetrate much further north than other missionaries and he provides accounts of his meetings with Cornelius and Adam Kok, Jonker Afrikaner and others. Campbell had an observant eye and his accounts are readable and philosophical. He endured considerable deprivation and the accounts of the tribulations he faced are told with humility and candour. When all seemed lost he turned to prayer to find the answer, or indeed, the lost oxen! He penned other accounts on his return to England, but it is these which have become important Africana. The plates and maps are in splendid condition. See Mendelssohn, vol. 1, p. 254-8 and DSAB, vol. 3, p. 127-8.

- 4 Harris, William Cornwallis. PORTRAITS OF THE GAME AND WILD ANIMALS OF SOUTHERN AFRICA: delineated from life in their native haunts during a hunting expedition from the Cape Colony as far as the Tropic of Capricorn, in 1836 and 1837, with sketches of the field sports; drawn on stone by Frank Howard. London: W. Pickering; Green & Martin (printers), 1840.
175 p.: lithographed title page, 30 hand coloured lithographed plates with paper guards & descriptive text, 30 uncoloured lithographed tailpieces. Elephant folio. Magnificent contemporary half leather & marbled paper covered boards with gilding. A.e.g. Raised bands & title label on spine, which is attractively decorated with gilded animal silhouettes and flourishes between the bands. Book plate on front endpaper. Gift inscription on front free endpaper. Tightly bound with minimal wear evident. Slight offsetting to plates as usually seen. Plates bright and clean. A superb copy.

Harris (1807-1848) joined the British East India Company in 1823 as a second-lieutenant. He arrived in Cape Town in June 1836 (now a Captain) to recover from fever. He arranged a hunting trip and travelled northwards via Robert Moffat's home to Mosega where they met Mzilikazi. After staying there for some time, they returned south in October via the Magaliesberg, crossing the Vaal River on 20 December 1836. He reached to Cape Town in early 1837, and returned to India for military service in January in 1838. PORTRAITS OF THE GAME AND WILD ANIMALS OF SOUTHERN AFRICA was published from 1840. He was knighted in 1844, and died of fever near Poona four years later. "One of the most important and valuable of the large folio works on South African fauna... in addition to the beautiful coloured engravings which render this work almost the most highly prized of the books relating to South African animals, every plate is accompanied by an exhaustive chapter upon the characteristics of the animal represented, as well as by a short sketch of its personal appearance...". See Mendelssohn, vol. 1, p. 688-9.

- 5 Mendelssohn, Sidney. MENDELSSOHN'S SOUTH AFRICAN BIBLIOGRAPHY: being the catalogue raisonne of the Mendelssohn library of works relating to South Africa, including the full titles of the books, with synoptical, biographical, critical and bibliographical notes on the volumes and their authors... ; with a descriptive introduction by I.D. Colvin. London: Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner, 1910.

2 vols. (lxxii, 1008, 1139 p.): ill., frontispieces. Cloth, t.e.g. Mendelssohn's book plates laid down on front endpapers, previous owner's book plate laid down on front free endpaper. Edition limited to 500 sets, of which 450 were made available for sale. Mendelssohn's book plates signed & inscribed by Mendelssohn.

Mendelssohn (1860-1917), a diamond dealer, accumulated an extensive Africana library, which he left to South Africa and today forms the basis of the Library of Parliament. This bibliography's value lies in his perceptive comments on the books and represents his generation's views of South African history. A cornerstone of any Africana collection.

See nos. 5 and 8

- 6 Millais, John Guille. A BREATH FROM THE VELDT; with illustrations by the author and frontispiece by Sir J.E. Millais. London: Henry Sotheran, 1895. x, 236 p.: ill., (13 electro etchings, including frontis.), ports. Folio. Cream pict. buckram, browned on spine. Some slight spotting on edges of plates as normally seen.

"... a classic of the shooting world. Never before, or elsewhere, have the winged and furred creatures of the wild lived in their lithe beauty and fantastic grace as in these delicate drawings." The Daily Telegraph in 1895, on publication. See Mendelssohn vol. 2., p. 13.

- 7 Percival, Robert. AN ACCOUNT OF THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE: containing an historical view of its original settlement by the Dutch, its capture by the British in 1795 and the different policy pursued there by the Dutch and British governments: also a sketch of its geography, productions, the manners and customs of the inhabitants, etc, etc; with a view of the political and commercial advantages which might be derived from its possession by Great Britain. London: C. and R. Baldwin, 1804.

xii, 339 p. 4to. Calf, worn & rubbed. Previous owners' details on front endpaper, book plate laid down on front free endpaper. Slight browning to page edges & preliminary pages, but overall a very clean and tightly bound copy. R 12 500

The first owner has dated his "ex libris" 1805. This is the first edition, with the uncorrected state of the header on p. 247 [which reads: THE CAPE OF

GO ODHOPPE]. As a captain in the Eighteenth or Royal Regiment of Foot, Percival took part in the first British Occupation of the Cape in 1795. Under the command of General Craig, he led the attack on the fortifications at Muizenberg, and was the first officer to reach Cape Town. He remained at the Cape for two years. His criticisms of the Dutch settlers were severe. He commended the Cape climate as the finest in the world and advised the home government, who had just restored the Cape to the Batavian government by the Treaty of Amiens, to reoccupy it. See Mendelssohn vol 2, p. 152.

SIGNED & INSCRIBED BOOKS

- 8 Adamson, Joy. THE PEOPLES OF KENYA; epilogue by G.W. Huntingford. London: Collins & Harvill Press, 1967. 400 p.: ill. (some col., chiefly ports.), map on endpapers. 4to. Pict. paper covered boards, d.w. frayed along edges with chip to top of spine & price clipped. Inscribed, signed & dated by Adamson on half title page. R 1500
Adamson spent over six years living among the various peoples of Kenya, making a comprehensive record of their costumes and customs through paintings, photographs and the written word. Most of her paintings now hang in the National Museum, Nairobi.
- 9 Biggs, David. KAROO RAMBLINGS: short stories and tall tales; illustrations by Tony Grogan. Cape Town: Struik, 2004. 168 p.: ill., map. Paperback. Signed by Biggs on a preliminary page. R 150
Biggs was born and grew up on a sheep farm in the Karoo, before becoming a journalist. Many of the stories are taken from his father's letters and notes.
- 10 Bradlow, Frank R. THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF THOMAS BAINES TO SOUTH AFRICA. Grahamstown: The 1820 Settlers National Monument Foundation, 1975. 32 p.: port. Paperback. No. 5 of an edition limited to 150 copies. Signed by Bradlow on numbered insert laid down on verso of front cover. R 300
Bradlow has also included a chronological record of Baines' life.

- 15 De Graaff, G. THE RODENTS OF SOUTHERN AFRICA: notes on their identification, distribution, ecology and taxonomy; with colour plates by R.A.R. Black. De luxe ed. Durban: Butterworths, 1981.
xviii, 267 p.: ill. (some col.), range maps, map on endpapers. 4to. Full leather with gilding. Book plate laid down on front endpaper. Signed twice with dated inscription on title page. No. 1 of an edition limited to 50 copies. R 2500
Seldom seen, this book is well laid out and easy to follow.
- 16 Devitt, Napier. THE CONCENTRATION CAMPS IN SOUTH AFRICA: during the Anglo-Boer War of 1899-1902. Pietermaritzburg: Shuter & Shooter, 1941.
60 p.: tables. Stiff paper wraps. Page edges browned. Book plate laid down on verso of front cover. Signed & dated by Devitt on the title page. R 1500
Devitt served as a magistrate. The booklet was published to counteract the propaganda disseminated to rouse public feeling against Britain during the Second World War, when the Union fought on Britain's side. "...certain factions are doing their poor best to injure the war cause of the dominions..." [introduction]. It was a rather crude attempt to attribute deaths in the camps to the tactics employed by the Boer forces and diseases such as measles. The weak war-time binding ensures this pamphlet's scarcity; this copy is in remarkably good condition.

- 17 Forbes, Gordon. TOO SOON TO PANIC. London: Viking, 1995.
vii, 287 p. Paper covered boards, d.w. Page edges browned. Name on half title page. Signed & dated inscription from Forbes on half title page. R 300

- 42 Boeseken, Anna [ed.]. UIT DIE RAAD VAN JUSTISIE, 1652-1672. Pretoria: Government Printer, 1986.
xlviii, 433 p. (Suid-Afrikaanse Argiefstukke. Belangrike Kaapse dokumente; deel 3). 4to. Cloth.

Very rarely seen. Dr Boeseken worked for many years in the State Archives and her great knowledge of the Dutch, the VOC and early Cape history enabled her to produce a number of books on the early settlement of the Cape. Her careful annotation of these documents (which start with instructions given to Jan van Riebeeck) show important milestones in South African and Cape history. It is regrettable that the State Archives discontinued this series as it contributed to a better understanding of a period about which relatively little is now written. Dr Boeseken draws attention to 463 criminal and civil cases heard at the Cape which show the problems at the Cape and how they were resolved. Of particular interest is the fact that the Raad protected slaves from their masters, and the poor from exploitation by the rich. The cases reveal the wide variety of peoples from all over the world living at the Cape at this time.

- 43 Burrows, Edmund H. OVERBERG ODYSSEY: people, roads and early days. Swellendam: Swellendam Trust, 1994.

Anreith (1754-1822) came from Riegel, Germany. He had to flee his home country and joined the VOC, arriving at the Cape in 1777. He performed menial tasks until 1786 when his talents were recognised by the Company and he was appointed Master Sculptor. Working closely with the architect Louis Thibault, Anreith proceeded to create a number of the most beautiful buildings and structures in the Cape. He died without family and in near poverty in his house in Bloem Street. His legacy to the Cape includes the Kat Balcony at the Castle, aspects of Groot Constantia and the Customs House.

"...much interesting and instructive information." Mendelssohn, vol. 2, p. 527. Trotter (1862-1962) spent three years at the Cape (1896-98) when her husband was the Government Engineer. She cycled all over the countryside, drawing and making notes about her surroundings. The result was OLD COLONIAL HOUSES and this book. Her work greatly increased awareness of Cape Dutch houses amongst the general public.

The definitive biography. Thomas Baines (1820-1875) was an English artist and explorer who came to South Africa at 22, and worked for a while in Cape Town as a scenic and portrait artist, and later as official war artist for the British Army during the Eighth Frontier War. In 1858 he accompanied David Livingstone along the Zambezi, and was one of the first white men to view Victoria Falls. From 1861 to 1862 Baines and James Chapman undertook an expedition to South West Africa and in 1869 he led one of the first gold prospecting expeditions to Mashonaland. He also explored Australia between 1855 and 1857 and is best known for his detailed paintings and sketches which give a unique insight into colonial life in southern Africa and Australia.

Bambandyano lies across the valley from Mapungubwe, where, in 1932, skeletons, earthenware pots, tools, copper wire, glass beads, bangles and gold beaten work were found in great numbers. Archaeologists hoped they would find more clues as to who the Zimbabwe builders were, but instead the skeletons found at Bambandyano revealed that those buried were not Bantu-Negro people, but rather people with some Negroid features, more akin to people whose skeletons had been found in coastal caves. They were named Bush-Boskop people. Some had been buried carefully and ceremoniously with pottery, bead and copper ornaments placed carefully around the corpse, whilst all had come to a violent end. Deals with one of South Africa's most important archaeological sites.

Constance & Richard Humble had some flying lessons at the Johannesburg Light Plane Club before purchasing a Puss Moth monoplane. Ten days after taking delivery of the plane, they left their children in Stellenbosch, and set off from Cape Town for Edinburgh on 1 June 1931. Heading north via Johannesburg, Victoria Falls, Nairobi, Juba, Khartoum, Cairo, Tripoli, Tunis, Rome, Marseilles, Paris and London. Some 107.24 flying hours later, they arrived in Edinburgh without mishap! They suggest thermos flasks, raincoats, a revolver and a business attache-case and maps are necessary; as is arranging petrol ahead of time, and off you go! The Master of Sempill suggests that anyone thinking of purchasing an aeroplane to fly around the Empire would do well to read this book. At this stage, there was no commercial air service between England and South Africa. The letter, dated 1954, is from Louis Young and is addressed to Kenneth [Van der Spuy?].

"... this historical and practical account of the diamond industry, and especially of the South African diamond mines... contains a full description of the mines with the fullest details respecting their working". See Mendelssohn. Vol. 2, p. 614. Gardner Williams was General Manager of De Beers Consolidated Mines. It was rumoured that De Beers management was unhappy with the level of detail Williams provided, fearing competitors might benefit from it. A cornerstone of any South African mining collection.

Skivertex, d.w. frayed and rubbed along spine & edges, but unusually present. Book plate laid down on front endpaper. R 5000

Based on Hey's carefully kept fishing diaries, recording happy days on rivers, lakes and estuaries in different parts of South Africa over a period of fifty years. Hey had the unique opportunity of visiting all the worthwhile waters as author of several government Blue Books on inland fisheries. Hey grew up in the Border region and started work at the Department of Post and Telegraphs as a teenager. He worked in the Department for the next 47 years, enjoying postings all over South Africa (always close to good fishing spots!). In 1925, the Union Government initiated a survey of all inland waters and Hey was appointed to fulfil the task, despite his lack of formal scientific training. He described every river, stream and vlei in South Africa and as a result the government was able to stock rivers and dams with fish in a more efficient manner. "If you only ever collect one [fishing] book, let it be RAPTURE OF THE RIVER. There will never be another that sums up the soul of South African fly fishing as brilliantly". - 121 Baines, Thomas. THE GOLD REGIONS OF SOUTH EASTERN AFRICA; by the late Thomas Baines, accompanied by biographical sketch of the author. London: Edward Stanford; Port Elizabeth: J.W.C. Mackay, 1877.
xxiv, 240 p., [4] leaves of plates: ill. (4 laid down, including port. as frontis.), advertisements, folding facsimile letter; map in pocket on rear endpaper. Pict. cloth with gilding, corners bumped. Slightly worn on spine. Spotting on preliminary pages. Four mounted photographic plates. R 1500
In 1870 Lobengula, leader of the Matabele nation, granted Baines a concession to explore for gold between the Gweru and Hunyani Rivers. "Mr Baines was one of the earliest pioneers in that part of Africa now known as Rhodesia [present day Zimbabwe]. Unfortunately his backers in Europe failed to procure the necessary working capital for the exploitation of the venture, so the author missed making a large fortune. The volume is a most important work, and contains full information of every description upon the subject of the gold discoveries in Matabeleland and Mashonaland, with much curious knowledge of the inhabitants. The books also contains an account of the gold discoveries in the Transvaal [and] gives details of no less than nineteen routes from the various places in South Africa to the newly discovered goldfields". See Mendelssohn vol. 1, p. 71-72.

Mendelssohn (vol. 1, p. 585) describes Galton's work thus: "... a very reliable account..." Galton travelled with C.J. Andersson with whom, despite the travails of the journey, he remained on good terms throughout. Galton regretted that he could not continue his travels, but noted that not only his cattle became worn out, but also his clothes, equipment and servants! He felt that one explorer could not do justice to the huge area he had traversed as he attempted to "fill up the blanks in our maps which, lying between the Cape Colony and the western Portuguese settlements, extends to the interior as far as the newly discovered Lake Ngami" [preface]. Galton (1822-1911), a cousin of Charles Darwin, was to lead a distinguished life crowned with awards and honorary degrees and considerable scientific achievement. He was a psychologist, geographer (who drew the first weather maps) and statistician as well as producing numerous scholarly books and papers. Although not his first journey of exploration, it was to be his most audacious and was awarded the Royal Geographic Society's Gold medal in 1853 in recognition of his journey and publication.
